To tell if someone you know is anorexic, keep an eye out for common habits associated with the condition and any changes to their mental state. Since someone with anorexia fears gaining weight, they may refuse to eat certain types of food, like carbs, or not eat altogether. They might also talk a lot about food, usually in a negative way, which may be a sign that they're obsessed with food and ...

This is especially true with reference to my body. I cannot tell you how many times ED has reminded me how thin and fit I was. It is easy to glorify things in the past because we want to remember the good times more than the bad. This is particularly true with respect to eating disorders because ED will constantly remind you of the supposedly good things you had when you gave into your ...

I became anorexic when I was about 14, I think because I was bullied about my weight I stopped eating. But I did suddenly start to grow very tall quite quickly and I got very thin and I got pubic hair. Unfortunately, the bits that didn't grow very much were my genitals. In some ways, it was better, because I wasn't fat, but I was now a much bigger body with the same package. My peer group ...
